"All the resources are properly documented with the provision of live support from time to time, so it's very easy to use and comprehend the solutions. On an overall view, it is an excellent product to stream videos and download the same. The only suggestion I would have would be to provide the documentation in PDF, with the addition of the software's script, so that it's user-friendly." - ElieA - Google Play "One thing I am not too happy with is that it is not as intuitive and simple as other apps I have used in the past. It does the job, but I definitely prefer apps that are a bit easier to use." - Susan - Google PlayQ: how to add a new row in the middle of table with Jquery? I am looking for a simple way to add a new row in the middle of my table using Jquery after an event is called. I am really stumped on how to do this, but I will have a textbox and a button. The textbox is where the users enters text, and the button is where it says, "Add Row". The textbox is hidden so they can't do it without me telling them. This is really a
